Great Nicobar task: Pursuing national security with ecological responsibility

Admiral D K Joshi, PVSM, AVSM, YSM, NM, VSM, (Retd.), Hon'ble Lt. Governor, A&N Islands and Vice-Chairman, Islands Development Agency

"A state that does not secure its frontiers, alliances and trade routes cannot secure its future." Kautilya's lesson, written into the grammar of statecraft centuries ago, has returned with unusual force in our time. Nations today are again being tested not merely on the size of their economies or the strength of their armies, but on their ability to read geography, anticipate the future and act before opportunity turns into vulnerability. Great Nicobar is one such test for India.

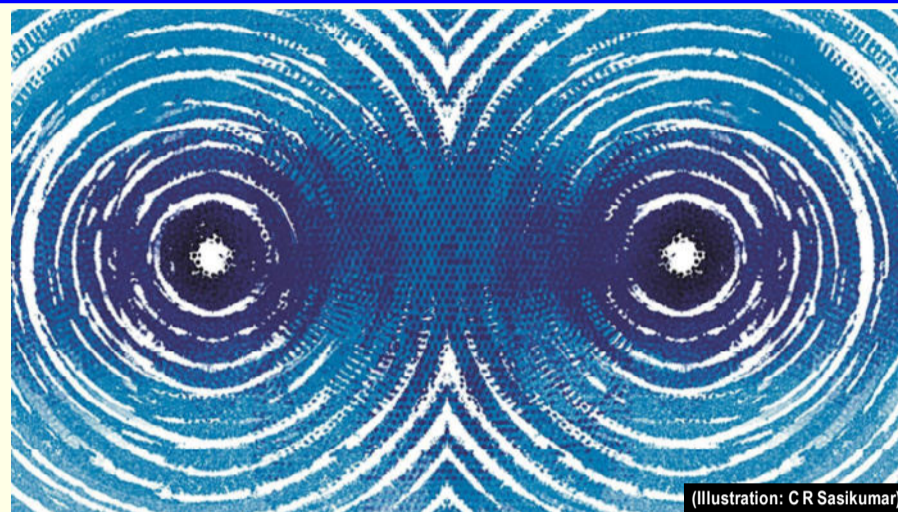

Located close to some of the most important seaways of the Indo-Pacific, Great Nicobar is one of India's most important strategic windows to the world. That is why the proposed development cannot be understood merely as an infrastructure project. It is a strategic test of whether India is prepared to convert a rare geographical advantage to further bolster its Comprehensive National Power.

For centuries, the Indian Ocean shaped India's destiny, carrying our trade, ideas, civilisational influence and, at times, our vulnerabilities. Yet, for much of the post-Independence period, India's strategic imagination remained heavily continental.

Great Nicobar is one of the largest islands in the archipelago, with an area of about 910 sq km. The total project area of 166.10 sq km is only about 2 per cent of the total area of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, of which 130.75 sq km, approximately 1.82 per cent of the total forest area of the islands, is proposed for diversion. Great Nicobar lies close to Southeast Asia and sits near major global sea lanes.

Its importance becomes clearer when viewed from the strategic lens of the high seas. Imagine the ships moving from the Gulf of Aden towards the Malacca Strait, energy cargo sailing from West Asia and Africa towards East Asia, container traffic connecting Asia, Africa and Europe, naval assets, surveillance platforms and logistics chains moving through these waters.

The Indian Ocean is increasingly becoming a crowded strategic arena. Energy flows, container traffic, naval deployments, island facilities, undersea cables and maritime surveillance are now part of a larger contest that is decisive for the future of nations. Recently, Thailand shelved a decades-old proposal for a canal connecting the Andaman Sea to the Gulf of Thailand. Instead, an overland 90 km multi-modal land bridge connecting two newly designed deep-sea ports along the 10th parallel - one in Ranong on the Andaman Sea and another in Chumphon on the Gulf of Thailand - along with dual-track high-speed rail, multi-lane roads, energy pipelines for oil and gas and an air-digital grid, is pending final approval. All these factors redefine the Indo-Pacific trade route and shift the economic centre of gravity to the Andaman basin.

The Strait of Malacca is among the world's most important chokepoints. It connects the Indian Ocean with the Pacific and carries energy (oil and LNG) and commerce of enormous value. Great Nicobar's Galathea Bay is about 45 km from the Six Degree Channel, which connects the Malacca Strait with routes leading towards Africa, the Middle East and Europe. Around 1 lakh ships pass annually through the Malacca Strait-Six Degree Channel route. The island's proximity to the Malacca, Sunda and Lombok chokepoints gives India a significant strategic advantage.

Across the IOR, powerful countries are steadily expanding their presence through ports, logistics arrangements, maritime access facilities, naval assets, surveillance systems and economic corridors. India's answer must be strategic consolidation. Sovereignty is strengthened when territory becomes connected, inhabited, serviced, productive and strategically usable. The International Container Transshipment Port, greenfield airport, township and power plant will together create the ecosystem needed for India to maintain a credible, sustained and multidimensional presence at a decisive maritime location.

The National Green Tribunal, after due diligence and consideration of observations, acknowledged the project's great significance not only for the economic development of the island and the surrounding areas of strategic location, but also for defence and national security. Singapore did not become a great maritime hub merely because it was well located. It built capacity around that location. Location gave it the opportunity, and its infrastructure converted that opportunity into influence. Diego Garcia offers another lesson from the Indian Ocean. It shows how a remote island, when equipped with logistics and operational infrastructure, can acquire outsized strategic significance.

Great Nicobar allows India to do this in a balanced and distinctly Indian way. It can support trade and strengthen national security, reduce dependence on foreign transshipment hubs, enhance India's maritime reach and serve as a gateway to Southeast Asia and a platform for the wider Indo-Pacific. A transshipment port at Great Nicobar can reduce dependence on foreign ports, improve supply-chain resilience, attract investment, generate employment and give India greater certainty over the movement of its own cargo.

Of course, Great Nicobar is environmentally sensitive. Any project of this scale must be implemented with ecological care, legal compliance, scientific

MESSAGE

On the occasion of World Environment Day, I extend my warm greetings and best wishes to all the residents of the A&N Islands. This year's theme, "Inspired by Nature. For Climate. For Our Future.", serves as a timely reminder that nature is our greatest ally in addressing climate challenges and securing a sustainable future for generations to come.

The A & N Islands are endowed with extraordinary natural wealth, including lush forests, pristine beaches, vibrant coral reefs, extensive mangroves, and unique biodiversity. These invaluable ecosystems not only enrich our environment but also sustain the livelihoods, culture and well-being of our people. In the face of growing environmental challenges and climate change, safeguarding these fragile natural resources has become more important than ever.

I commend the efforts of the Administration, educational institutions, voluntary organizations, youth groups and citizens who continue to contribute towards environmental conservation through initiatives such as mangrove plantation, beach clean-up drives, coral reef protection, renewable energy adoption and effective waste management practices.

However, protecting the environment is a shared responsibility that requires collective action. I urge all islanders, particularly our youth and students, to become champions of environmental stewardship. Let us adopt sustainable practices by reducing waste, avoiding single-use plastics, conserving water and energy, planting and nurturing trees and preserving the fragile ecosystems that make our Islands unique.

On this World Environment Day, let us reaffirm our commitment to living in harmony with nature and work together to build a greener, cleaner, and more sustainable future.

Jai Hind!

Departments in the Mayabunder and Tugapur areas that the power supply in these areas has been adversely affected due to breakdown of 2x1500 KVA DG sets at Hiring Power Plant Panighat, Mayabunder on 31.05.2026. This has resulted in a power generation shortfall of approximately 800 kW in the affected areas due to which a rotational transformer wise power cut of two hours is being exercised.

The Department immediately after the breakdown has undertaken intensive efforts to restore power generation and one of the 1500 KVA DG sets was successfully revived and put into operation on 02.06.2026 at 1900 hrs. However, the DG set subsequently developed a technical fault after about three hours of operation. Meantime, efforts are being made to draw 600 kW power from Kalpong Hydro Electric Project (KHEP), Diglipur, but owing to the long transmission distance and dense

Weather Advisory for Farmers: Timely agricultural operations recommended during ongoing Monsoon

Sri Vijaya Puram, June 4 With the onset of the Southwest Monsoon and widespread rainfall across the Andaman & Nicobar Islands, the Department of Agriculture, A&N Administration, has advised farmers to take advantage of the favourable weather conditions and undertake seasonal agricultural operations in a timely manner.

Advisory for Paddy Farmers- Farmers are advised to initiate nursery sowing, field preparation, bund strengthening and land levelling operations. Adequate drainage should be maintained in nurseries to avoid water stagnation and seedling damage. Farmers may also take up the sowing of Dhaincha (Sesbania spp.) as a green manure crop in their fields. Incorporation of Dhaincha into the soil before transplanting helps improve soil fertility, enhances organic matter content and contributes to higher paddy productivity.

To facilitate timely sowing, quality seeds of improved paddy varieties namely Gayatri, Dweep Dhan-11 (ANR-47) have been made available through all Agriculture Sub-depots across the Islands at a subsidized rate of Rs. 15/- per kg.

In addition, traditional paddy varieties such as Musley, Khusbuya, Nyaw-in and Andaman Karen Sticky Rice (Black) are available for sale at the Seed Multiplication Farm, Nimbudera at Rs. 20/- per kg. Farmers interested in cultivating these indigenous varieties are encouraged to procure seeds well in advance.

Advisory for Vegetable Growers Vegetable growers are advised to undertake sowing and transplanting of suitable rainy-season vegetable crops such as bhindi, chilli, brinjal, cowpea, cucumber, bottle gourd, ridge gourd, sponge gourd, pumpkin, ash gourd and leafy vegetables. Raised beds should be prepared to ensure proper drainage and prevent waterlogging. Regular monitoring of crops for pest and disease incidence is recommended, as high humidity during the monsoon period may favour the spread of diseases. Staking of vegetable crops may also be adopted wherever necessary.

Advisory for Plantation Crop Growers Farmers cultivating plantation and spice crops such as coconut, arecanut, black pepper, nutmeg, clove and cinnamon are advised to maintain proper drainage around plant basins and plantation areas. The current season is ideal for planting new seedlings, gap-filling in existing plantations and application of organic manures.

Growers of cinnamon are specifically advised to undertake harvesting and peeling of mature cinnamon bark, as the bark separates easily from the stem under moist conditions, resulting in superior quality quills and better recovery.

Spice Pravah Initiative: Farmers covered under the SPICE PRAVAH Initiative are advised to utilize the ongoing monsoon season for field preparation, pit digging, planting of spice crops, gap-filling in existing plantations and adoption of recommended soil and water conservation measures.

The Department has urged all farmers to make optimum use of the favourable monsoon conditions for timely agricultural operations and adoption of recommended crop management practices to ensure better crop productivity during the current cropping season.

For further information and technical guidance, farmers may contact the nearest Agriculture Sub-Depot/ Zonal Agriculture Office or contact at Kisan Call Centre -03192 243434, a press release from Department of Agriculture said.

Great Nicobar task: Pursuing national monitoring and genuine mitigation. But ecological sensitivity cannot become a permanent veto on strategic thinking. The challenge is to pursue national security with ecological responsibility.

The real question is whether India wants to responsibly develop a strategic island, or whether it will leave that island under-connected at a time when the entire Indo-Pacific is being reorganised. India is both a continental and maritime power. For too long, the continental mind overshadowed the maritime one. The Great Nicobar project is, therefore, not extravagance, but strategic foresight. A nation's destiny is shaped not only by the threats it faces, but by the opportunities it recognises in time. Great Nicobar is one such opportunity. To neglect it would be to leave geography unused and vulnerable to being shaped by others. To develop it wisely would be to turn geography into a strength.

India does not need to apologise for thinking strategically. It only needs to act responsibly, decisively and with a clear sense of national interest. In the Indo-Pacific century, Great Nicobar is not the edge of India. It is India's watchtower at the gateway of the future. (Source: <https://indianexpress.com>)

OBSERVANCE OF ANTI MALARIA MONTH, JUNE 2026. THE THEME FOR 2026 IS "Driven to End Malaria: Now We Can. Now We Must"

MALARIA मलेरिया

Malaria is a communicable disease caused by a parasite. Malaria may cause anemia and jaundice. In certain cases, if not treated promptly, it may cause kidney failure, coma and death.

Life Cycle of Malaria Parasite मलेरिया की जीवन चक्र
