National Health Authority introduces new system to measure and grade performance of Hospitals empanelled under Ayushman Bharat PM-JAY scheme

Objective of the new system is to incentivize and encourage healthcare providers to focus on delivering patient centric services

New Delhi, Jan. 9 (PIB)

With an objective to shift the focus of performance of hospitals from volume of services provided to the value of healthcare services, National Health Authority (NHA) is introducing a new system to measure and grade hospital performance under the flagship scheme Ayushman Bharat Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (AB PM-JAY).

Traditionally, from the payer's perspective, the healthcare model has been focussed on the quantity of services delivered, where case-based bundled payment is made on the basis of the number of services provided. The new initiative will introduce the concept of 'value-based care', where payment will be outcome based and providers will be rewarded according to the quality of the treatment delivered. Under the new model, the providers will be rewarded for helping the patients improve their health, which consequently will reduce the effects of disease in the long term. The step promises significant increase in the overall health gains and is expected to be a win-win for all concerned stakeholders from patients to healthcare providers, payers and suppliers. While the patients will get better health outcomes and higher satisfaction out of the services they receive, providers stand to get better care efficiencies. Similarly, payers will be able to maximize the health benefits generated out of the spending incurred.

Speaking on the initiative Dr. R.S. Sharma, CEO, National Health

Authority said, "To ensure PM-JAY beneficiaries receive both cashless healthcare benefits and high-quality care at every empanelled hospital, NHA has implemented various measures. These measures include standardizing the cost of treatment under the scheme and adding new and advanced treatment procedures. Additionally, NHA has made a provision to incentivize best performing hospitals that provide quality care to patients."

It has further highlighted that the manner of reporting such incidents is distasteful and distressing for the audience.

In a value-based healthcare system, the payers can also exercise strong cost controls. A healthier population with fewer claims translates into less drain on payers' premium pools and investments. Suppliers would benefit from being able to align their products and services with positive patient outcomes and reduced cost. Altogether, value-based care promises to significantly improve healthcare landscape in India by incentivizing and encouraging healthcare providers to focus more on delivering patient centric services.

Under value-based care, the performance of AB PM-JAY empanelled hospitals will be measured based on five performance indicators such as: Beneficiary Satisfaction; Hospital Readmission Rate; The extent of Out-of-Pocket Expenditure; Confirmed Grievances and Improvement in-patient's Health-Related Quality of Life.

The performance of the hospitals based on the above indicators shall also be made available on a public dashboard that will help the beneficiaries to make an informed decision. In this way, the hospital performance shall not only determine the financial incentive of the hospital but also create a demand for quality treatment of beneficiaries under PMJAY.

Collectively these interventions of performance assessment and value-based incentives, use of health technology assessment, and use of digital tools to monitor the quality of care will transform AB PM-JAY and the Indian health system from a volume-based to a value-based health care delivery system.

reception of Free-To-Air channels transmitted by Doordarshan. TVs manufactured as per this Indian standard would enable reception of Free-To-Air TV and Radio channels just by connecting a dish antenna with a low-noise block mounted on a suitable place. This initiative is expected to facilitate the transmission of knowledge about Government initiatives, schemes, educational content, and other programs to reach and benefit a wide segment of the country's population. The BIS also published the Indian Standard for USB Type C receptacles, plugs, and cables to provide common charging solutions for smartphones and other electronic devices sold in the country. This also aims at limiting e-waste.

In its third standard, the BIS published Indian Standards for Video Surveillance Systems for use in Security Applications. This would assist customers, installers, and users in establishing their requirements, and determining the appropriate equipment required for their intended application. This is expected to make the surveillance system more secure, robust, and cost-effective as well. (Source: india.gov.in)

Story of Japanese Bunkers in Andamans

*N. Mohan

We always have many interesting stories to tell but certain structures have much more than that. The spectacular stories behind each of these landmarks is worth revisiting.

Japanese bunkers were built when the Japanese army invaded the Andaman and Nicobar Islands strategically to defeat the Allied Powers which included Britain, France, Russia, and the US. Japan was a part of the Axis powers which included Germany and Italy.

It is reported that more than 300 bunkers were built till the time the Japanese army stayed here. It is also claimed that lot of people died because of Japanese brutality while extracting construction work of bunkers and pillboxes for their fortification.

A Japanese pill box perched on the sandy beach of Corbyn's cove.

On occupation of these Islands, the Japanese made an extensive system of coastal defences and fortifications between 1942 and 1944 during the World War II. The Eastern Coast was one of the heavily fortified areas of South Andaman. The fortification was a series of pillboxes built to guard these Japanese occupied islands on the East Coast from Allied assault. It included: munitions bunkers, flak bunkers, infantry and artillery combat bunkers, depot bunkers for storing supplies, combat headquarter bunkers with staff quarters, observation and command bunkers, battery fire-control positions, besides support bunkers for machinery, searchlights, and power generators.

Today many structures have fallen into the sea or have been demolished over the years. But hundreds of concrete bunkers, troop shelters & pill boxes remain intact and are still visibly perched on the sandy beach next to sunbathers in the Corbyn's Cove Beach.

In South Andaman, the remnants of Japanese fortification running almost 40 miles from the southern tip of Chidyatapu to the entrance of Port Blair Harbour could be seen.

These coastal defences turned the Japanese into a virtually impregnable fortress that could be held by relatively few troops. Japanese were concerned that the open artilleries were too vulnerable for airstrikes. They chose therefore to build bunkers around them with reinforced concrete walls. The Pill boxes were built along the coast as part of the defense of the Islands equipped with machine guns which were positioned at strategic intervals so that their fields of fire would overlap thereby reinforcing each other and covering almost the entire coast. Most of the Pillboxes are rectangular in shape located in the high tide line on the Eastern Coast of South Andaman. Their roof slab is quite thick with two- or three-gun ports on their east-facing wall. Its entrance is on the landward (west) side with air vent come through the western wall.

Interior of a hexagonal Japanese pill box with two firing slits at the Corbyn's Cove Beach facing Snake Island

The pill boxes were concentrated at strategic points such as Corbyn's Cove Beach, Aberdeen Jetty (now Marina Park), Ross Island and at the entrance of Port Blair harbour besides Chatham Island. In certain places (Rampur, Mayabunder Tehsil) these structures were designed to be well hidden in view from the sea and air.

These Japanese bunkers and pill boxes have countless story to tell. One such story is that of 'Operation Pedal' which was a British carrier borne air attack on Japanese facilities at Port Blair and other locations in the Andaman Islands.

It was a wednesday morning, 21st June 1944, the lone carrier HMS Illustrious protected by HMS Renown, FS Richelieu, HMS Nigeria (later INS Mysore), HMS Kenya, HMS Ceylon and Destroyers Quilliam, Quality, Quick Match, Rotherham (later INS Rajput), Race Horse, Relentless, Roebuck and Raider (later INS Rana) as Force 60, carried out attack on Port Blair from the Western Coast of South Andamans instead of Eastern Coast which was well fortified by Japanese. The ship launched 15 barracuda aircraft and 23 Corsair aircraft against the airfield and harbour of Port Blair from 95 miles off Port Blair. Since the weather over Andaman Islands was poor, the British carrier borne aircrafts were not able to inflict much damage. Around 38 aircrafts took off from HMS Illustrious from 0615 onward with bomb load and made attack on Port Blair destroying a few Japanese aircraft on the ground and a few small crafts were sunk in the harbour. Despite poor visibility, one aircraft was shot by the Japanese anti-aircraft gun mounted on a Flak Bunker. The remaining aircrafts have returned to the deck by 08.45 a.m. and landed safely. The aircraft which failed to return was Piloted by Lt. Basil Wellington Aldwell. With smoke pouring out of the aircraft, Lt. Basil had no hope of making it back to HMS Illustrious, to save his crew, the only option left with him was to land in the sea some 15 miles off Port Blair. But unfortunately, all the crew members of the

PM Gati Shakti maps data layers related to social sector infrastructure

New Delhi, Jan. 9 (PIB)

Data layers on important assets pertaining to health, education, culture, tourism, Gram panchayats, municipal corporation, social welfare housing etc are being mapped and data validation is being done for optimum use of PM Gati Shakti principles in planning of both physical and social infrastructure. This was informed during the Review meeting on onboarding of Social Sector Ministries/Departments chaired by the Special Secretary (Logistics), DPIIT at Vanijya Bhawan, New Delhi

The meeting was attended by Ministry of Housing of Urban Affairs, Department of School Education & Literacy, Department of Higher Education, Ministry of Tribal Affairs, Ministry of Panchayati Raj, Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, Ministry for Women and Child Development, Department of Sports, Ministry of Rural Development, Ministry of Culture, Department of Posts and BISAG-N. The 12 Ministries/Departments have been onboarded are now in advanced stages of data integration onto the NMP Platform that include important layers such as schools, hospitals, and anganwadi centres etc. The BISAG-N made a presentation on decision making and planning tools, use cases such as connectivity to model schools and disaster management planning along with the advantages of adopting NMP by social sector Ministries/Departments. Ministries/Departments presented the progress of adopting Gati Shakti, data layers that can integrated onto the NMP platform and the challenges being faced by Ministries/Departments during the integration process.

The presentations were followed by deliberations with the participants, interesting and socio-economically useful ideas were generated, for instance, mapping of anganwadi centers with respect to accessibility, evaluation of location for establishing a new technical institute for promoting linkage with industry, analysing locations of schools and identifying any connectivity issues and so on.

Protein found in Zebrafish can regenerate aged discs in human vertebrae

New Delhi, Jan. 9 (PIB)

A protein found in the backbone of zebrafish that plays a positive role in disc maintenance and promotes regeneration in aged discs between vertebrae can have potential therapeutic implications to promote regeneration in degenerated human discs. In humans, discs degenerate naturally, leading to many related health concerns, including low back, neck, and appendage pain. Currently, only symptomatic treatments for disc degeneration are available, including pain relievers or anti-inflammatories. In severe cases, disc replacement or disc fusion surgery is performed. Thus, there is an urgent need to develop a treatment either to suppress disc degeneration or to promote disc regeneration in humans. Medical examinations have given insights into the stages of degenerating human discs, but limited information is available about the cellular and molecular processes playing a role in the maintenance of the discs.

Most importantly, no medical procedures or treatments have been known to suppress disc degeneration or induce disc regeneration.

A study by Agharkar Research Institute (ARI), Pune, an autonomous institute of the Department of Science and Technology, discovered that a protein called Cellular communication network factor 2a (Ccn2a) secreted from intervertebral disc cells induces disc regeneration in aged degenerated discs by promoting cell proliferation and cell survival by modulating the pathway called the FGFR1-SHH (Fibroblast growth factor receptor-Sonic Hedgehog) pathway. The study which used Zebrafish as a model organism is the first in vivo study showing that it is possible to induce disc regeneration in a degenerated disc by activating an endogenous signaling cascade. The scientists also found that the Ccn2a-FGFR1-SHH signaling cascade takes a positive role in disc maintenance and augmenting disc regeneration. The study published in the journal Development used genetic and biochemical approaches and is likely to help design a novel strategy to suppress disc degeneration or induce disc regeneration in degenerated human discs.

aircraft were picked up by a Japanese ship and taken to Cellular Jail for interrogation.

This Allied air raid made the Japanese very furious, and they started arresting many respectable people of Andamans including the President of Indian Independence League (IIL) Ramakrishna, Vice President Durga Prasad, Secretary IIL Ratnam, Niranjan Lal, Edmond Mayers, and few other prominent men on the charges of espionage. After great deal of persuasion and especially because of Chief Commissioner Loganathan's intervention, the Japanese Governor released all those who were arrested except one Edmond Mayers who was sentenced to 7 years R.I. Simultaneously the arrested Allied Force's Pilot Lt. Basil and two of his crew members were flown back to Singapore and placed in an Indian POW Camp. After 10 days in Singapore they were then flown to South Honshu Japan where they remained as POW till Japanese surrender in 1945.

After his release from the prison, Lt. Basil was shifted to a hospital ship bound to New Zealand and Australia from where he sailed to South Hampton (England). Finally landed in his home country Ireland.
