Building Rs 81,000-crore Great Nicobar Island: A greenfield coastal city, international airport with an eye on tourism and entertainment hub

A big chunk of 66.53 sq km will be reserved as no-felling zone, as per conditions laid down by the Environment Ministry while granting clearances

CITING TOURISM as the "backbone" for the growth of Great Nicobar Island and its primary economic driver, the Andaman and Nicobar Islands administration has outlined the proposed development of a greenfield coastal city that will rest on the pillars of an airport, a transshipment port, tourism and entertainment hub, and allied servicing industry.

The Public Works Department of the islands has sought suggestions and objections on the 'draft master plan for Great Nicobar Island Development Area - 2047', and as per sources, a notification to this effect has been published. The draft master plan primarily focuses on the integrated township component of Rs 81,000-crore Great Nicobar Island (GNI) mega infrastructure project. An international airport, a transshipment port at Galathea Bay, a gas and solar power plant and defence-related plans are the other key parts of the project that is proposed to make the island an economic and defence hub. A linear, multi-nodal urban corridor stretching around 35-km from north-south along GNI's eastern coast from Campbell Bay to Indira point has been proposed for urbanisation.

Of the total 166-sq-km area required for all components of the GNI project, the new greenfield city will take up 9.51 sq km land for mixed-use development covering hotels, retail and offices; 8.68 sq km for parks and open spaces; 5.95 sq km for residential use and 1.12 sq km for industry. Agricultural land measuring 3.46 sq km has been conserved, with provisions allowing eco-resorts and farmstays alongside traditional coconut and arecanut cultivation.

The land, it stated, will be divided into four development clusters and two special reservation zones along this north-south extent. These include a tourism and entertainment cluster, a processing cluster for agro and seafood products, an administrative and institutional cluster. The special reservation zones will comprise defence activities in the southwestern part flanking Galathea Bay, and a future development zone, which would be opened in the future.

The western flank, northern and south-western parts of the development area are predominantly diverted forest land, while the eastern flank of the development area is predominantly under revenue villages.

The islands' 8,000-8,500 odd population is spread over the seven revenue villages - Campbell Bay, Govind Nagar, Joginder Nagar, Vijay Nagar, Laxmi Nagar, Gandhi Nagar and Shastri Nagar - on the eastern coast. As part of the road development, a new trunk road is
