Great Nicobar Airport Project Near Malacca Shipping Route Moves Ahead After Green Nod

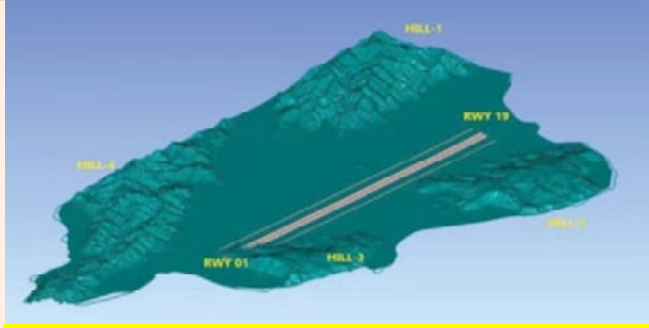

Forecasts suggest that as development on the island accelerates, population could reach around 3.25 lakh by 2040, generating passenger demand of about 13.5 lakh travellers annually

After years of planning and debate, the proposed Great Nicobar International Airport has moved a step closer to reality. The Airports Authority of India (AAI) has now invited tenders for consultancy for the construction of the airport, marking a major milestone for one of India's most ambitious infrastructure projects in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands.

The move comes after environmental clearance for the project was upheld recently by the National Green Tribunal, clearing a key hurdle that had been closely watched by environmental groups and strategic planners alike.

The proposed airport will come up on Great Nicobar Island, India's southernmost island, located barely 180 kilometres from Sumatra in Indonesia. Though remote and sparsely populated today, the island sits close to some of the world's busiest shipping routes that pass through the Malacca Strait, making it strategically important for India's presence in the Indian Ocean region.

A tender document with CNN-News18 dated March 7 shows that the airport is being designed with a long-term vision. Traffic forecasts suggest that as development on the island accelerates, the population could reach around 3.25 lakh by 2040, generating passenger demand of about 13.5 lakh travellers annually. In the initial years, most flights are expected to be domestic, with international routes likely to develop gradually as tourism grows.

The airport's master plan spans a 50-year horizon up to 2075, with development divided into four phases. Each phase will expand capacity as passenger traffic increases. The airfield is also being designed so that it can eventually accommodate larger international aircraft in the future.

Beyond civilian connectivity, the project has a strong strategic dimension. Around 100 acres of land have been earmarked for Indian

Navy infrastructure, including aircraft hangars, operational facilities and residential areas for personnel. This would allow India to strengthen its surveillance and operational reach in a region that is becoming increasingly important for global trade and security.

Officials say the airport is a crucial component of the government's broader plan to develop Great Nicobar as a strategic and economic hub. The project is designed as a dual-use airport, serving both civilian and military purposes. Under the proposed arrangement, the Indian Navy will control airside operations and air traffic control, while the Airports Authority of India will manage the passenger terminal and civilian operations.

For the people living on Great Nicobar and neighbouring islands, the project could dramatically change daily life. Connectivity to the island is currently limited, with long sea journeys or indirect flights through the Andaman Islands often required to reach the mainland. The new airport promises faster travel, better access to services and the possibility of economic growth through tourism and trade. The proposed site lies between Gandhi Nagar and Shastri Nagar in the southern part of the island, around 30 kilometres from Campbell Bay. Engineers have planned the runway alignment in a north-south direction so that aircraft approach and depart largely over the sea, helping reduce disturbance to inhabited areas.

Great Nicobar remains one of India's most remote frontiers, known more for its dense forests and biosphere reserve than for major infrastructure. But with tenders now invited and key environmental approvals in place, the island may soon witness the first steps toward becoming a new aviation gateway in the Indian Ocean. District Administration (SA) takes swift action against fresh encroachment at Dudh Line village

Sri Vijaya Puram, Mar. 11 The District Administration, South Andaman, in its continued commitment to safeguard Government land and uphold the rule of law, has taken prompt and decisive action against fresh encroachments in Sri Vijaya Puram Tehsil.

During a recent inspection, fresh encroachments in the form of two temporary structures and three fencing were identified on Government land at Dudh Line Village. Acting immediately, the Revenue authorities conducted an eviction drive and successfully removed the unauthorized encroachments, thereby restoring approximately 2,000 square metres of revenue land to its original status. The action was carried out in a lawful and orderly manner, reaffirming the Administration's resolve to prevent misuse of public land.

The District Administration has once again underscored its zero-tolerance policy towards encroachment on Government land. It has issued a stern warning to all individuals and entities indulging in or abetting such illegal activities that encroachment of Government land will not be tolerated under any circumstances.

Strict penal action shall be initiated against violators strictly in accordance with the provisions of law, and any attempt to circumvent legal procedures will invite firm consequences.

The general public have been advised to strictly comply with all legal provisions governing land use and ownership. Citizens are encouraged to remain vigilant and cooperate with the Administration by reporting any instances of encroachment or illegal occupation of Government land. Such

A&N Archives launches its website sub-chapter on Abhilekh Patal

Sri Vijaya Puram, Mar. 11 Under the Digital India initiative, the A&N Archives launched its website sub-chapter on Abhilekh Patal yesterday. The website was formally launched by the Chief Secretary, A&N Administration, in the presence of senior officials at the Secretariat. The Archives Department commenced the work of uploading archival records to the portal on Feb. 10, 2026.

Within a period of 20 working days, the Archives Department successfully uploaded 2,267 records comprising 96,355 pages. This work was carried out with the valuable support and association of students from the History Department of JNRM, who contributed during their internship period. On the website, the Archives has created several thematic categories to facilitate easy retrieval of information for research scholars as well as the general public.

(Archives) has also requested the general public and old inhabitants of these islands to kindly share any historically important documents in their possession with the Archives Department. Such materials may include documents, photographs, visitors' books, and other historical records, which may be deposited with the Archives for proper preservation and also included in the Website for future reference.

In cases where custodians are not willing to part with the original documents or photographs, the materials may be digitized through scanning, and soft copies preserved in the Archives for record, posterity, and historical research, a communication from A&N Archives said.

Entrepreneurship & innovation in poultry farming Shri Prem Rao's innovative terrace quail farming transforms livelihoods in Sippighat

Sri Vijaya Puram, Mar. 11 Shri Prem Rao, a resident of Sippighat, has emerged as a beacon of entrepreneurship and innovation in poultry farming, demonstrating how scientific training and creative space utilization can turn limited resources into a thriving, sustainable business. With a lifelong passion for livestock activities, Shri Rao voluntarily underwent a comprehensive one-month training programme in poultry farming at the Government Poultry Farm, Livestock Farm Complex, Dollygunj, under the Department of Animal Husbandry & Veterinary Services (AH&VS), Andaman & Nicobar Administration. The training equipped him with essential scientific knowledge and practical skills in quail rearing, breeding, health management, and marketing, empowering him to launch his venture with confidence.

PIB Media Outreach takes Island Journalists to India's Gateway to Space

Delegation visits Indian Space Research Organisation Launch Centre at Sriharikota, AP; leaves Journalists inspired

Sriharikota, March 11 A media exposure visit organised by the Press Information Bureau, Sri Vijaya Puram for the local journalists of Andaman and Nicobar Islands to the Satish Dhawan Space Centre, Sriharikota Island in Andhra Pradesh today turned out to be a truly memorable and enriching experience for journalists from the Islands. The visit offered the participants a rare opportunity to witness firsthand the facilities and infrastructure that power India's ambitious space missions.

The exposure tour was aimed at familiarising media professionals with the functioning and achievements of the Indian Space Research Organisation and its key launch facility at Sriharikota. For many journalists, the visit was a dream come true, as it provided an inside look at the historic spaceport from where India has launched several landmark missions.

During the visit, the media team was taken through various facilities at the space centre and briefed by officials about the launch operations and the technological advancements achieved by ISRO over the years. The participants also learned about the role played by the centre in launching satellites for communication, navigation, weather forecasting and scientific exploration.

The Satish Dhawan Space Centre (SDSC), located on the island of Sriharikota along the eastern coast of India, serves as the country's primary launch site for satellites and space missions. The centre has been instrumental in the successful launch of numerous rockets including the Polar Satellite Launch Vehicle (PSLV) and the Geosynchronous Satellite Launch Vehicle (GSLV), which have strengthened India's presence in the global space sector.

Journalists described the visit as historic and inspiring, noting that witnessing the place from where India's space dreams take flight filled them with immense pride. The tour not only enhanced their understanding of the nation's space programme but also highlighted the remarkable dedication of scientists and engineers working behind the scenes.

The exposure visit organised by PIB, Sri Vijaya Puram provided valuable insights into India's growing capabilities in space technology and research. Participants expressed gratitude to the Press Information Bureau for facilitating the tour and giving them an opportunity to experience firsthand the technological excellence and visionary work of ISRO.

For many in the visiting media persons, the journey to Sriharikota was more than just a professional engagement, it was a lifetime experience that deepened their appreciation of India's achievements in space exploration and innovation.

The media delegation was led by Shri Vijay, Media and Communication Officer, Press Information Bureau (PIB), Sri Vijaya Puram. The team comprised prominent journalists from leading media organisations of the Islands, including Shri K. Shri Prem Rao's innovative terrace quail.....

Dollygunj, Shri Rao gradually expanded his operation. Today, he successfully rears around 300 quails, with male birds sold in the local market at Rs. 60 per bird and female quails retained for egg production. His unit now generates approximately 200 eggs per day, sold at Rs. 5 per egg, providing a steady and sustainable income stream that has significantly improved his family's financial stability.

Shri Prem Rao's success story exemplifies how innovative thinking and effective utilization of available space can transform small-scale poultry farming into a profitable enterprise, even in urban or semi-urban settings. His terrace model not only minimizes land requirements but also promotes biosecurity, efficient feeding, and easy monitoring, making it replicable for other aspiring farmers. "The Department's training was a game-changer," says Shri Rao. "It gave me the tools to dream big and turn my passion into a viable business that supports my family and inspires my community."

The Animal Husbandry and Veterinary Services Department continues to extend technical guidance, training, and support to farmers like Shri Rao, thereby contributing significantly to strengthening rural livelihoods and promoting sustainable poultry farming across the islands. His journey serves as a powerful motivation for many aspiring farmers to adopt scientific and innovative methods, highlighting the importance of departmental support in fostering self-reliance and economic growth in the A&N Islands, a press release from Deptt. of AH&VS said.

Kisan Credit Card: Fueling Growth in Agriculture

Strengthening Farmers' access to capital

Text Box: Key Takeaways

- ▶ The Kisan Credit Card (KCC) provides timely, affordable, and collateral-free credit to farmers, including small, marginal, tenant farmers and SHGs/JLGs.
- ▶ Under the Modified Interest Subvention Scheme (MISS), the loan limit has been enhanced to Rs. 5 lakh, with collateral-free credit raised to Rs. 2 lakh per borrower.
- ▶ Over 7.72 crore KCCs are active nationwide, with outstanding loans of about Rs. 10.2 lakh crore.
- ▶ The KCC platform has onboarded 457 banks and received more than 1,998.7 lakh applications across commercial, regional, rural, and cooperative banks

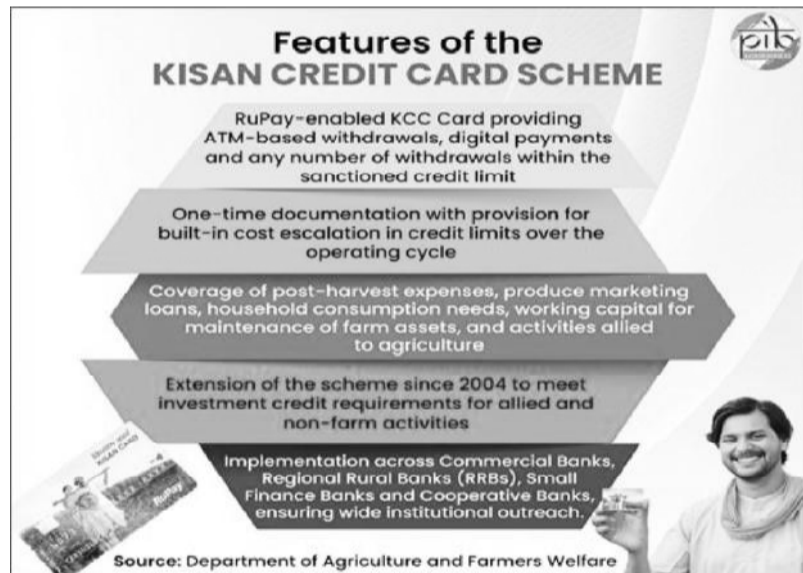

Introduction

The agriculture and allied activities sector have historically formed the backbone of the Indian economy, making substantial contributions to national income, employment generation, and rural livelihoods. With nearly 46.1 per cent of the population dependent on agriculture and allied activities for their sustenance, ensuring financial security and improved access to institutional credit for farmers remains a central policy priority for the Government. In this context, a set of targeted interventions has been introduced to strengthen agricultural finance, with particular emphasis on expanding and modernizing the Kisan Credit Card (KCC). The Revised Kisan Credit Card (2020) scheme seeks to ensure that farmers have access to adequate and timely credit for a wide range of agricultural requirements, including short-term crop cultivation, post-harvest operations, marketing-related expenses, household consumption needs, working capital for farm maintenance, and investment credit for allied and non-farm activities.

Evolution of Kisan Credit Card and its Features

The Kisan Credit Card (KCC) Scheme, introduced in 1998, was designed to simplify and expedite farmers' access to short-term institutional credit for crop production. It provides working capital and investment credit for allied activities and covers post-harvest and marketing expenses, thereby offering comprehensive financial support to enhance farm incomes. To further improve the affordability of credit under the KCC, the Government launched the Modified Interest Subvention Scheme (MISS) as a Central Sector Scheme in 2006-07. The scheme ensures farmers have access to credit at affordable rates through the Kisan Credit Card (KCC). The scheme also supports farmers in recovering from natural calamities and promotes timely loan repayment, thereby easing overall financial stress. Over time, it expanded to cover allied and non-farm activities, with the Revised KCC Scheme (2020) providing integrated, single-window credit support.

The revised KCC offers a RuPay-enabled card with flexible withdrawals, digital payments, and one-time documentation, making access to credit simple and efficient. It covers cultivation, post-harvest needs, allied, and non-farm activities, and is implemented through commercial, regional rural, and cooperative banks to ensure broad outreach.

Eligible Beneficiaries of the Kisan Credit Card

The Kisan Credit Card (KCC) Scheme covers a wide range of farmer categories to promote inclusive and equitable access to institutional credit. It extends coverage to:

- ▶ Individual farmers and joint borrowers who are owner-cultivators,
- ▶ Tenant farmers, oral lessees, and sharecroppers.
- ▶ In addition, the scheme also includes Self Help Groups (SHGs) and Joint Liability Groups (JLGs), including groups formed by tenant farmers and sharecroppers, thereby ensuring broader financial inclusion across diverse farming communities.

Onboarding of Farmers through the KCC application

To streamline farmer onboarding and improve access to institutional credit, facilitative measures have been implemented under the Kisan Credit Card.

- ▶ A simplified one-page KCC application form has been introduced, with basic applicant details pre-filled from banks' PM-KISAN records, and farmers are required to submit copies of land records and information on the crops cultivated.
- ▶ The form is widely disseminated through national newspaper advertisements and made available for download on the websites of all Scheduled Commercial Banks (SCBs), the Department of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare (agricoop.gov.in), and the PM-KISAN portal (pmkisan.gov.in).
- ▶ Common Service Centres (CSCs) have been authorized to assist in completing and digitally transmitting applications to the concerned bank branches, thereby expanding outreach.

Kisan Rin Portal: Digital transformation of KCC implementation

To strengthen the implementation and monitoring of the Kisan Credit Card (KCC) scheme, the Government launched the Kisan Rin Portal (KRP) in September 2023 as a unified digital platform that integrates:

- ▶ Farmer profiles,
- ▶ Loan disbursement data,
- ▶ Interest subvention claims, and
- ▶ Scheme performance metrics.

For farmers, the portal simplifies access to low-cost institutional credit, expands coverage to allied activities such as dairy, poultry, fisheries, and beekeeping, and enables faster loan processing through seamless digital integration with banks and cooperative institutions.

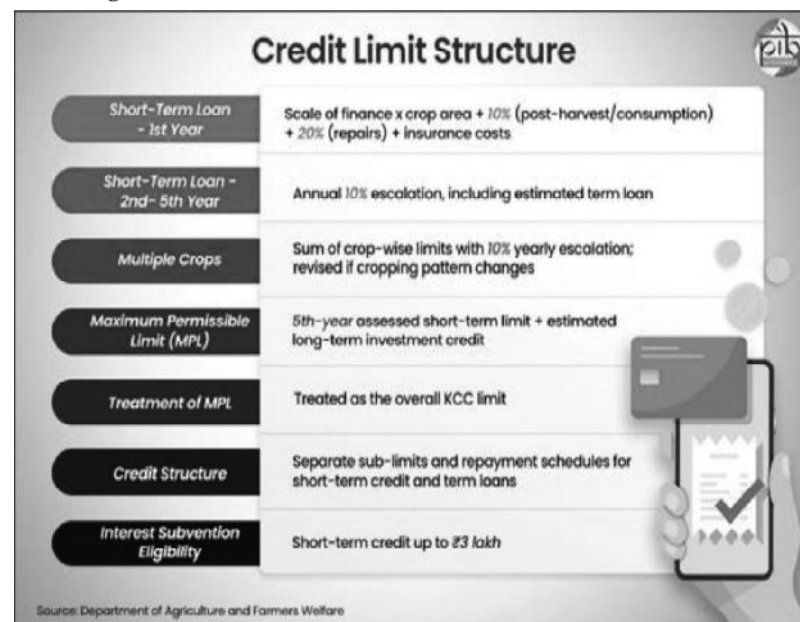

For banks and lending agencies, KRP facilitates the automated submission and processing of Interest Subvention (IS) and Prompt Repayment Incentive (PRI) claims, reduces delays through end-to-end digitization, and enhances transparency and accountability in claim verification and settlement. Overall, the portal has significantly improved operational efficiency, monitoring, and transparency in agricultural credit administration.

Enhancing Farmers' Access to Affordable Credit under MISS and KCC

In 2025-26, the Government of India enhanced the Kisan Credit Card (KCC) lending limit, which includes:

- ▶ The crop loan limit under MISS, which has been raised from Rs 3 lakh to Rs 5 lakh.
- ▶ The credit limit for fisheries and allied activities has been increased from Rs 2 lakh to Rs 5 lakh
- ▶ The collateral-free credit limit has increased from Rs 1.6 lakh to Rs 2 lakh per borrower, effective from 1 January 2025.
- ▶ Short-term agri-loans up to Rs 3 lakh are available at 7% interest, with an additional 3% subvention for timely repayment, reducing the effective rate to 4%.

Credit Limit and Loan provisions under KCC

Under the Kisan Credit Card (KCC), term loans and composite credit limits are structured differently for marginal and non-marginal farmers, taking into account their landholding size, investment capacity, and livelihood requirements. While non-marginal farmers are provided asset-linked term loans for long-term agricultural and allied investments, marginal farmers are provided with flexible, need-based credit limits that integrate short-term production credit, consumption needs, and minor investment requirements within a single composite Kisan Credit Card limit.

Provisions for all farmers other than marginal farmers

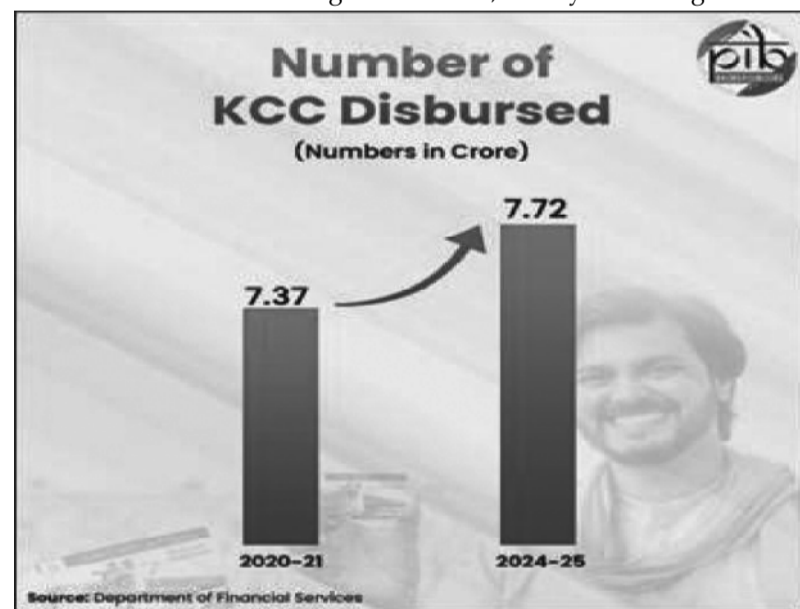

Provisions for Marginal Farmers

A flexible limit of Rs 10,000 to Rs 50,000 may be sanctioned based on factors such as landholding size and cropping patterns. The composite KCC limit is to be fixed for a period of five years. In cases where higher credit is required due to changes in cropping patterns or scale of finance, the limit may be revised in accordance with prescribed estimation norms. This limit is designed to cover:

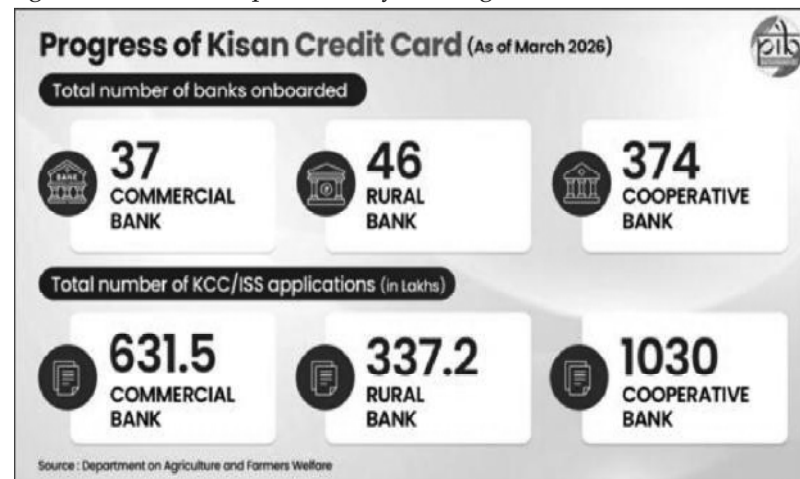

- ▶ Post-harvest and warehouse-related credit requirements,
- ▶ Routine farm and consumption expenses, and
- ▶ Short-term investments, including the purchase of farm equipment or the establishment of an allied enterprise, as assessed by the branch manager and independent of land valuation.

Scale and Financial Outreach of the KCC

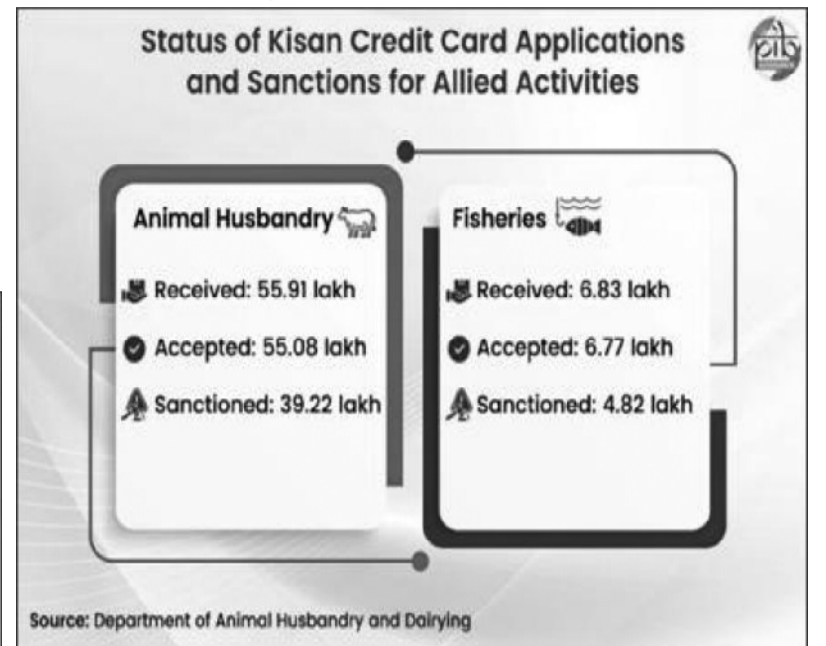

More than 7.72 crore Kisan Credit Cards (KCCs) are currently operational across the country, with an outstanding credit amounting to Rs. 10.2 lakh crore. This reflects the extensive reach of the KCC scheme in facilitating access to institutional credit for farmers and underscores its critical role in supporting agricultural and allied activities through affordable, timely financing.

Under the Kisan Credit Card (KCC) platform, a total of 457 banks has been onboarded, including 37 commercial banks, 46 regional rural banks, and 374 cooperative banks. It indicates a diversified delivery architecture to ensure broad geographic coverage and inclusive access to institutional credit for farmers nationwide. Across these institutions, a total of 1,998.7 lakh kisan credit card applications have been processed, of which 631.5 lakh were through commercial banks, 337.2 lakh through regional rural banks, and 1030.0 lakh through cooperative banks. It reflects the broad institutional participation in the KCC implementation and highlights the central role of cooperative banks in extending agricultural credit, particularly at the grassroots level.

In 2018-19, the Government of India extended the Kisan Credit Card (KCC) facility to fishers and fish farmers to meet their working capital requirements, thereby enabling timely access to institutional credit for fisheries and aquaculture activities. The total KCC issuance peaked, reflecting the scheme's expanding reach to support diverse agricultural activities.

The facts and figures indicate a strong institutional response to credit demand in allied agricultural activities. In animal husbandry, the exceptionally high acceptance rate, 55.08 lakh out of 55.9 lakh applications, reflects broad eligibility, effective screening mechanisms, and sustained policy support for the sector. The sanctioning of 39.22 lakh applications further suggests substantial credit flow, translating into actual financial support.

Similarly, in fisheries, 6.83 lakh applications were received, of which 6.77 lakh were accepted. The sanctioning of 4.82 lakh applications indicates meaningful conversion of demand into credit access. Overall, these outcomes underscore the growing integration of allied sectors into formal credit systems.

Advancing Affordable Credit and Farm Productivity
By easing access to working capital, the Kisan Credit Card (KCC) scheme is facilitating timely investment in quality agricultural inputs, thereby contributing to enhanced farm productivity and higher incomes.

Affordable Institutional Credit: The scheme continues to offer institutional credit at a highly concessional interest rate of 4%. This makes it one of the most affordable agricultural credit instruments globally, ensuring easier access for small and marginal farmers.

Flexible Credit facilities: The KCC continues to provide revolving credit facilities with a validity of up to 5 years, allowing farmers to withdraw funds as needed for their production.

Risk Mitigation Support: To mitigate risks arising from natural calamities, interest is not charged for up to 1 year, extendable to 5 years in cases of severe disasters.

Collateral-Free Loans: Enabling farmers to avail loans up to Rs. 2 Lakh without collateral, significantly reducing entry barriers to formal credit.

Empowering small and marginal farmers: With approximately 76 percent of agricultural credit accounts held by these farmers, the scheme plays a critical role in empowering the most vulnerable segments of the farming community.

Boost in Farming Productivity: Enabling farmers to invest in improved seeds, fertilizers, and farm equipment, leading to better yields, enhanced incomes, and strengthened agricultural resilience.

Government Initiatives to Enhance Accessibility of the KCC

The Government has undertaken a series of measures to enhance the accessibility, coverage, and effectiveness of the Kisan Credit Card (KCC) Scheme.

To improve awareness, the Union and State Governments, in collaboration with the Reserve Bank of India, NABARD, and banking institutions, have implemented extensive Information, Education, and Communication (IEC) campaigns and farmer outreach programmes.

Under the Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyan, a nationwide KCC Saturation Drive is being conducted to ensure coverage of all eligible farmers, including those engaged in animal husbandry, dairy, and fisheries, through district-level weekly camps.

In addition, the RuPay KCC has facilitated convenient access to short-term agricultural credit and promoted digital transactions. It has also reduced reliance on cash and informal lending sources, thereby enabling farmers to avail interest subvention benefits.

Collectively, these government initiatives have strengthened financial inclusion and improved the delivery of institutional credit by enabling a secure, interoperable payment framework.

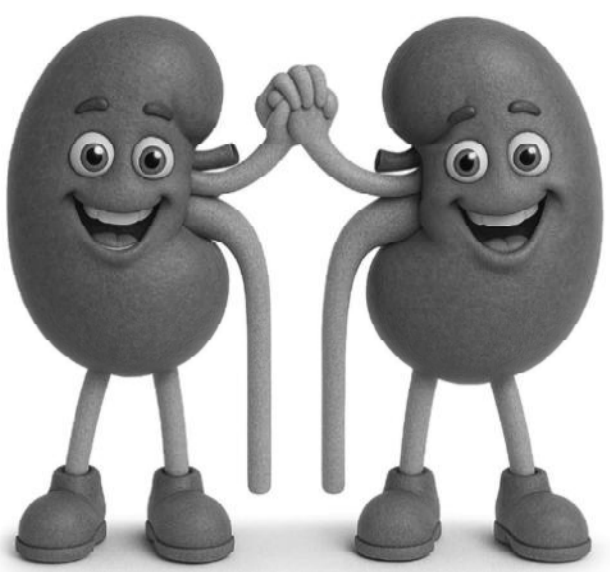

Conclusion

Access to affordable and timely institutional credit is central to sustaining agricultural livelihoods and strengthening rural economies. The Kisan Credit Card (KCC) Scheme has addressed this need by creating a reliable credit mechanism that supports cultivation, allied activities, and post-harvest requirements within a single, flexible framework. The progressive evolution of the scheme reflects a shift from transaction-based lending towards a more holistic approach that aligns credit availability with farmers' production cycles and income flows.

Recent reforms, including enhanced credit limits, expanded coverage to allied sectors, and digital integration through the Kisan Rin Portal, have significantly improved outreach, transparency, and governance. By enabling data-driven monitoring, expediting loan processing, and ensuring transparent claim settlement, these measures have strengthened the operational efficiency of agricultural credit delivery. In the context of increasing climate-related and market risks, the KCC scheme serves as a critical policy instrument to enhance financial resilience, promote the formalization of credit, and support sustainable agricultural growth, thereby contributing to inclusive rural development and long-term sectoral stability. Its continued strengthening will remain essential for advancing inclusive rural development and long-term agrarian stability.
