Pre-Conception and Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (Prohibition of Sex Selection) Act

11 Govt. Hospitals & 14 Private hospitals registered under the Act in Isles

Ultrasonography Units should mandatorily display signboard indicating 'detection/revelation of the sex of the foetus is illegal'

Port Blair, Aug. 31

The Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (Regulation and Prevention of Misuse) Act, 1994 (PNDT), as amended in 2003 to The Pre-Conception and Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (Prohibition of Sex Selection) Act (PC & PNDT Act), is a law to curb the abhorrent practice of sex determination and sex selection.

Pre-natal diagnostic techniques like amniocentesis and ultrasonography have been used all over the world for the detection of genetic abnormalities. However, in India, they are being misused for the past three decades for the detection of the sex of the unborn child and subsequently for sex-selection - that is to eliminate fetuses selectively, if they are female. 'The Pre-Conception and Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (Prohibition of Sex Selection) Act' not only prohibits determination and disclosure of the sex of the foetus but also bans advertisements related to pre-conception and pre-natal determination of sex.

Under the Act, it is mandatory in all Ultrasonography Units to display a signboard that clearly indicates that detection/revelation of the sex of the foetus is illegal. Further, all ultrasonography scanning machines have to be registered and the manufacturers are required to furnish information about the clinics and practitioners to whom the ultrasound machinery has been supplied. Any clinic having any type of imaging machine capable of performing prenatal sex determination shall register their facility with the appropriate authority.

A medical practitioner who contravenes any of the provisions of this Act may get imprisonment for a term that may extend to three years and with a fine that may extend up to Rs. 10,000 and on any subsequent conviction, he/she may get an imprisonment that may extend to five years and with a fine that may extend to Rs. 50,000. The name of the medical practitioner would be reported to the State Medical Council by the Appropriate Authority for taking necessary action, including removal of his/her name from the register of the Council for a period of five years for the first offense and permanently for the subsequent offense.

In A & N Islands, 11 Govt. Hospitals and 14 Private Hospitals have been registered under this Act. The Public and Private Hospitals are inspected before granting licenses and further inspections are done to confirm that the clinics are functioning as per the rules notified under PC-PNDT Act, a press release from Directorate of Health Services said.
