survey, but most of the time, the ships are out of service for a very long time. If a big dockyard is constructed in Andaman and Nicobar Islands, then our own ships will be repaired in no time, and this will benefit all the islands, because shipping is the lifeline of the region," the MP said.

He added that building India's biggest Dockyard in Andaman Nicobar Islands would benefit thousands of people by providing jobs, and generate revenue both from India and abroad. Moreover, when the Government of India is planning to establish a Transshipment Port at Great Nicobar, a lot of foreign ships visiting Andaman, can also be repaired at Andaman's Dockyard, which will bring in a significant amount of foreign revenue and generate good revenue for India.

He also highlighted the biggest constraint to development in Andaman Nicobar, which is the lack of revenue. "A lot of development work cannot be carried out in Andaman Nicobar Administration, even when there is an interest from the Andaman Nicobar Administration," he said.

But, he added that once Andaman and Nicobar Islands start earning revenue from the proposed Dockyard, Andaman will see massive development, and a lot of development work can be carried out with our own money, a press release from MP Office said.
