Ministry of Education directs States/UTs to align their age of admission for Grade-I to 6+ years

States/UTs also requested to initiate process of designing and running a two years Diploma in Preschool Education (DPSE) course

New Delhi, Feb. 22 (PIB)

The National Education Policy 2020 recommends strengthening of learning of children at the 'foundational stage' as a national priority for the country. The foundational stage consists of 5 years of learning opportunities for all children (between 3 to 8 years) that includes 3 years of pre-school education and 2 years of early primary Grade-I and Grade-II. The policy thus promotes seamless learning and development of children from pre-school to Grade- II. This can only be done by ensuring accessibility to three years of quality preschool education for all children studying in Anganwadis or Government-aided, private and NGO run preschool centers. Besides, the most important factor at the foundational stage is the availability of qualified teachers who are specially trained in the age and developmentally appropriate curriculum and pedagogy. The National Curriculum Framework for Foundational Stage (NCF-FS) has also been launched recently on 20.10.2022. To fulfill this vision, the Department of School Education & Literacy, Ministry of Education through D.O. letter 22-7/2021-EE.19/IS.13 dated 09.02.2023, has reiterated directions to all the State Governments and UT Administrations to align their age of admission with the policy and provide admission to Grade-I at the age of 6+ years.

The States have also been advised to initiate the process of designing and running a two years Diploma in Preschool Education (DPSE) course in their States and UTs. The course is expected to be designed by the State Council of Educational Research and Training (SCERT) and run/implemented through District Institute of Education & Training (DIETs) under supervision and hold of SCERTs.

ISRO to launch LVM3-M2 space vehicle to carry 36 OneWeb Internet satellites to space on October 23

New Delhi, Feb. 22

India's space agency, the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO), is gearing up to launch 36 OneWeb internet satellites into space using its powerful Geosynchronous Satellite Launch Vehicle Mark III (GSLV Mk III) rocket. The launch is expected to take place on the 23rd of October 2023, and it will mark a significant milestone for India's space program and its aspirations to become a global leader in the space industry.

The OneWeb constellation is a low Earth orbit (LEO) satellite system that is designed to provide high-speed internet connectivity to people around the world, particularly in remote and underserved areas. OneWeb is a joint venture between the UK government and Indian telecom giant Bharti Global, and it aims to provide affordable, high-speed internet access to billions of people who are currently without reliable connectivity.

The 36 OneWeb satellites that ISRO will be launching are part of a larger constellation that is being built to provide global coverage. This is not the first time that ISRO has launched OneWeb satellites into space, as the agency has already launched 74 of them in previous missions. However, this upcoming launch is significant because it will be the first time that ISRO will be using its GSLV Mk III rocket to launch OneWeb satellites. The GSLV Mk III rocket is one of the most powerful rockets in ISRO's arsenal, and it is capable of launching heavy payloads into space. It has been in development for many years, and its successful test launch in 2017 was a major milestone for ISRO. Since then, the rocket has been used in several missions, including the successful launch of India's Chandrayaan-2 mission to the Moon in 2019.

The launch of the 36 OneWeb satellites will be a complex and challenging mission for ISRO. The satellites will be launched into a polar orbit, which is a type of orbit that passes over the Earth's poles. This requires the GSLV Mk III rocket to follow a specific trajectory, which is different from the typical equatorial orbit that ISRO's rockets usually launch into. Additionally, the satellites will be deployed in a tight cluster, which will require precise timing and coordination to ensure that they are all placed in the correct orbit. (Source: india.gov.in)
