Pentavalent vaccine launched in Isles Can be availed from all Govt health institutions free of cost

Staff Reporter
Port Blair, Sept 24
The Directorate of Health Services, A&N Administration launched the first Pentavalent Vaccine in the auditorium of GB Pant Hospital here this morning. The Director of Health Services, A&N Administration, Dr. Shipra Paul was the chief guest of the occasion and the Dean, ANIIMS, Maj. Gen. R. P. Choubey was the guest of honour.

In her inaugural address, the Director Health Services, said the launch of Pentavalent vaccine will give a boost to the Islands health care system and can be effectively implemented only with the support of the doctors, ANMs and staffs of the Health Department. She also exhorted the health staffs to join hands and work together for the society.

The Pentavalent vaccine will be available free of cost at all the government health institutions of A & N Islands from Sept. 24, 2015 onwards.

In his key note address, the Dy. Director (Health), Dr. Avijit Roy said Pentavalent vaccine is a vaccine that contains five antigens (diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, hepatitis B and Heamophilus influenza type B. Pentavalent vaccine launched by the Government of India costs Rs.1300 per vaccine but it is being provided free of cost across the country, he said.

Pentavalent vaccine is a combination of DPT, Hepatitis-B and Hib vaccines and protects against Diptheria, Pertussis, Tetanus, Hepatitis B and Heamophilus influenza b. The DPT vaccine is provided under immunization programme since 1978 and Hepatitis B since 2010. Both the vaccines will now be replaced by Pentavalent vaccine. 3 doses of Pentavalent vaccine are to be provided at 6, 10 & 14 weeks of age. In addition, child is given birth dose of Hep B and booster dose of DPT at 1.5 year and 5 years. The advantage of Pentavalent vaccine is that it reduced injection pricks to child from 6 injections to 3 injections. Children below 6 weeks of age should not be given Pentavalent vaccine. Altogether five babies were vaccinated with Pentavalent vaccine and the dignitaries also handed over the Mother & Child Protection cards to those mothers whose child were vaccinated on the occasion. The programme was also attended by M.S. District Hospital, Garacharma Dr. B.P Saha, Senior doctors, HOD Community Medicine, Dr. Jhanvi, staff & students of Nursing school, ANMs, paramedic staffs and Anganwadi workers.
