demonstrations, artisanal exhibitions and tasting zones featuring coconut-based delicacies.

Apart from showcasing a diverse range of cuisines and handicrafts, the festival features several lively competitions and interactive activities that have added excitement and fostered community participation. A coconut-themed fun painting activity was organized for children in collaboration with the Education Department. Children below 15 years of age participated enthusiastically, expressing their imagination and artistic talents through colourful paintings inspired by coconut. The necessary painting materials were provided by the Tourism Department, enabling the young participants to engage in the activity with ease. The initiative provided a joyful and engaging platform for children to explore their creativity while connecting with the theme of the festival.

The Coconut Dehusking Challenge for Men and Women witnessed enthusiastic participation, with contestants showcasing their strength, speed and skill in an exciting contest. Their impressive performances drew loud cheers and applause from the gathering, adding to the festive spirit.

Adding further colour to the celebrations, a series of coconut-based culinary, art and handicraft competitions was organized in coordination with the Rural Development (RD) Department. The competitions provided an excellent platform for participants to showcase their culinary skills, artistic creativity and craftsmanship. The culinary competition encouraged participants to prepare a variety of delicious and innovative dishes using coconut as the main ingredient, highlighting its versatility and importance in the local cuisine.

Participants from diverse backgrounds, including students, artisans, local entrepreneurs and representatives of allied Departments, came together to showcase their talent, creativity and enthusiasm. The activities offered visitors an opportunity to explore traditional coconut crafts, learn about sustainable farming practices and discover value-added and wellness products derived from coconut.

A major attraction of the festival was the participation of various Government Departments and organizations, including ANIIDCO, Rural Development promoting (SHGs), AYUSH with theme' uses of coconut with homeopathy' Coir Board, Coconut Development Board, Tribal Welfare Department, Agriculture Department and Industries Department, CIARI, Science & Technology SVPNC which showcased the diverse and innovative applications of coconut. The Pvt. Stall/State Associations include Kerala Samajam, Andaman Moplah service Organisation, Bhojpuri Samaj, M/s chocolate House and Hotel Highway. The exhibition featured coconut-based products, traditional crafts, value-added items and livelihood opportunities, highlighting the immense potential of this versatile natural resource.

The exhibits also created awareness about the many uses of coconut beyond its conventional applications, encouraging visitors to explore its untapped possibilities in food processing, handicrafts, coir products and other sustainable enterprises. The initiative underscored the importance of value addition and entrepreneurship in promoting the local economy and generating sustainable livelihood opportunities.

The festival also came alive with vibrant cultural performances celebrating the rich cultural heritage of the Islands. A traditional dance performance by Nicobari youth, showcasing the unique cultural traditions of the Nicobari community, delighted the large gathering at the IIF Ground. Artists from M J Music Academy and Jhankar Dance Academy presented captivating folk dances of various States, adding to the cultural vibrancy of the event. Further enhancing the festive atmosphere, artists from the Sur Sangam Social & Cultural Society presented a musical (karaoke) programme, entertaining visitors and adding a melodious touch to the celebrations.

The Island Coconut Festival-2026 is not merely an event but a celebration of the Islands' heritage, creativity and sustainability. By bringing together traditional knowledge, innovative ideas, local entrepreneurship and cultural expressions, the festival highlights the immense scope of coconut as a resource for economic growth and sustainable livelihoods.

The festival will continue tomorrow (Oct. 25), too from 5 p.m. onwards at the IIF Ground. The general public, tourists and students are invited to visit the venue in large numbers and experience the rich cultural heritage, diverse crafts and delicious coconut-based cuisine of the Islands.
